ABOUT THIS BOOK

The following pages are an alphabetical list of burials which contain some or all of the items below, in the order given. Each item is separated by ";". Spelling has not been corrected but may be spelled more than one way if different information is available.

NAME—may contain a relationship: child of (c/o), daughter of (d/o), infant of (inf/t/o or i/o), son of (s/o), wife of (w/o), etc.

BURIAL NUMBER—This number is from the Burial Register. They are listed by sequence in the Burial Register at the cemetery.

AGE—when given

BIRTHPLACE, DEATH PLACE OR RESIDENCE—when given

DATE OF DEATH—usually given in burial register

DATE OF BURIAL—may also include more than one burial if removed from cemetery or to a different location in the cemetery.

PLAT—P followed by the number of the plat.

RANGE—R followed by the range number.

LOT—Lot followed by lot number.

GRAVE—G followed by the number of the grave when given, if single grave, it is so stated.

SINGLE GRAVE—This may be followed by a person in the same grave as the person being buried or a person with the same surname found next to the grave as the deceased. At one time, most graves were sold mainly in lots. Later, graves were more likely to purchased in the single grave section , the unoccupied grave being reserved for a family member.

LOT OWNER—This was given when found in the plat books and also listed another owner if lot was transferred or divided.

CAUSE OF DEATH—when stated

PHYSICIAN OR MIDWIFE—when given.

OBITUARIES AND DEATH RECORDS—Fairview Cemetery sexton began keeping obituaries in a scrapbook beginning about 1932. If there was no obituary in the scrapbook, we tried to locate one by using microfilm at the New Albany-Floyd County Public Library. We included all the corresponding obituaries we could locate.

PAGE NUMBER—This is the page number of the lot in the Plat book at the cemetery. Not all burials have this number recorded in our database.

Kraft; ; ; The man New Albany knew so fondly for so long as "Uncle Joe" died at 8:15 p.m. Friday at St. Edward's Hospital. "Uncle Joe," who was Joseph H. Kraft, New Albany Township Trustee, former Floyd County sheriff and for eighteen years probation officer of the county, was 86. He died soon after he had been moved to the hospital from his home at 508 E. Oak. Failing health marked the last two years of his colorful career and twice in that period he rallied from critical illness. Welded Much Influence. As probation officer –the first one ever in Floyd County – "Uncle Joe" wielded much influence on the lives of the younger generation. The mischievous and delinquent alike took heed when anyone said, "Uncle Joe will get you." This came to be a stock expression, and the ones Uncle Joe did get were dealt with sympathetically and helpfully. "Uncle Joe" was born in New Albany, son of the late George Kraft, an early New Albany funeral director. He attended St. Mary's Catholic School and as a youth went to work for the late W. S. Culbertson, who operated a large dry goods business in New Albany. Eventually he established a dry goods store of his own in downtown New Albany, but sold out later to W. S. Newburger, founder of the department store now known as The White House. Married Hannah Lennox. In 1879 he married Miss Hannah Elizabeth Lennox, co-owner of another dry goods store in operation then in New Albany. She died some fifteen years ago. Long an active Democrat, "Uncle Joe" became bailiff of the Floyd Circuit Court after retiring as probation officer in the early 1920's, and later was elected sheriff. He served one term in that office. He always carried a heavy walking stick-not because of any infirmity, but because he thought that he might need it for protection on some occasion. The story got around that he could throw the stick with such accuracy that he could trip a runner at fifty paces. Elected Township Trustee. In 1938, he was elected New Albany Township Trustee, and took office in 1939. He was the Democrat nominee for re-election. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and the New Albany Lodge of Elks. Survivors, daughter, Mrs. Olive Wells; a grand-daughter, Mrs. P. W. Cooper; two great-grandchildren; sisters, Mrs. Ida Broecker, New Albany, and Mrs. H. J. Rogers, West Palm Beach, Fla.; two nephews, one of them George A. Shrader; ; ; Desperate efforts to revive Linda Louise Martin, the 6-month-old daughter of Louise Martin, 915 West Eighth, with the fire department's inhalator failed Sunday night after she was found apparently suffocated with her neck caught between the bars of a crib. According to Dr. C.

E. Briscoe, deputy Floyd county coroner, death was due to strangulation. The child had been left in the care of a 13-year-old girl, Dolores McCauley, and her playmate, Ann Mae Reader, 9, who were also taking care of the two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horn with whom the victim's mother makes her home. According to a report received by the police department, Louise Martin, the child's mother, was at a local picture show, and the Horns had left the house to go swimming. The McCauley girl told the police she put the baby in the crib, while she and the other children went out to play, and upon her return found the baby unconscious, with her neck between the bars. The coroner said a full investigation would be conducted.; ;
